Joey Spivey Wellabe

Joey Spivey (he/him/his) is the senior learning and development specialist at Wellabe. In his almost decade of talent development work, Joey has held operational training, technical documentation, e-learning design, DEI, and organizational development roles as both a leader and individual contributor. He is an active participant in the ATD-CI Professional Development Day, regularly serving as both a facilitator and panelist. You can also almost always find him learning and growing alongside ATD-CI members at SIG events. Joey is a Certified Diversity Professional (CDP®), a SHRM Senior Certified Professional (SHRM-SCP), and will complete the requirements to be a Gallup-Certified Strengths Coach later this fall.

When not leading exciting L&D initiatives at Wellabe, you can find him soaking up every precious moment with his wife and two young kiddos. If you show up early enough to the Waukee YMCA, or wander around the Raccoon River Valley Trail, you'll also find him struggling to reconcile his lack of athleticism with his love for running, biking, and the occasional pick-up basketball game.
